DESIGN

The beauty of form and extreme simplicity of use are the result of the intervention of product, functional and user interface design. 20 years of design perfectly integrated in a concept that privileges the introduction of MasterGuardian® MGS security systems in a home environment.

Technology

HIGH TECHNOLOGY

The MGS security system was developed by MasterGuardian® R&D Center that integrates an engineering team responsible for the launching of more than 100 products, with more than one million units were produced.

The production is made on a controlled ambient in small series so that all components of this high technology system are meticulously constructed and inspected.

Taking a simple glance is sufficient to verify that there is a huge difference between the MasterGuardian® security system and any other. A level of outstanding quality that you can confirm personally during the production of your own system.

All because at MasterGuardian® there is an obsession for detail so that we can surpass the most demanding expectations.

User Interface

EXTREME SIMPLICITY

MasterGuardian® knows that only an extreme simplicity of use can stand up to your demands. Therefore we don't use any of the complex and averse methods that characterize the conventional systems that inevitably impair its full functionality and even induce not using it.

For greater simplicity, the MasterGuardian® MGS security system interacts with the user in his language through a graphic monitor of generous dimensions, equipped with white backlight and showing large characters for better reading.

The user interface enables access to all functions with only two touches.

Fingerprint

SECURITY AND FRIENDLY USE.

The MasterGuardian® Fingerprint technology offers security and extreme ease of use. The biometric technology turns memorizing of codes unnecessary and allows easy and intuitive use, even in extreme conditions when forced to disarm the system.

The MasterGuardian® MGS security systems are equipped with switch mode power supply, protection against electrical discharges and very robust software to achieve and guarantee the best performance.

All because in MasterGuardian® there is only one concern: your total serenity.
